Since 2016, NWI Entwicklung Süd GmbH is a newly founded development and construction company at our Ebhausen site.

As a member of the NWI Group and part of the Zech Group, we have access to an international network of partners with over 2000 employees in the fields of acoustics, metal processing, factory equipment, thermal or medical technology.

From the idea to design to the creation of technical documentation, we accompany the complete development process from planning to the final product.

We always attach importance to a careful and structured cooperation with our customers, in order to bring our know-how optimally to each project.

NWI Entwicklung Süd GmbH develops innovative and individual steel constructions for the photovoltaic industry, in particular.

Our close cooperation with other sister companies contributes to the successful development of the entire Group.
